Of particular interest for students is the Education Stage, where on 7 June they can participate in one of two online portfolio review sessions. Students can meet with industry professionals from some of the most sought after agencies in the industry, have their books reviewed and get valuable feedback.

On 8 June, students have the opportunity to attend virtual recruiting sessions with a number of agencies looking to connect with graduating seniors entering the industry. Student attendees will network in small groups for up to 15 minutes with from four-to-eight agencies.

Sign up for recruiting and portfolio reviews by registering for a student ticket. Teagan Rabuano, The One Club Education manager, will follow up with students to confirm participation in recruiting and reviews.

Also that day, the 2021 Young One Student Awards will be announced. For more than 30 years, The One Club for Creativity has been passionate about showcasing the ingenuity of students and young professionals. The Young Ones Student Awards is one of the world's most acclaimed competitive showcases for advertising, digital communication, and design students.

The Global Educators Summit takes place online on 9 June 9, and is an annual symposium where creative teachers, professors, administrators and other educators discuss the issues they face in the classroom.

In addition to everything on the Education Stage, students get access to all Creative Week 2021 programming over the five days.

This amounts to nearly 100 sessions of informative panels and workshops on the Main Stage, virtual visits to some of the industry's hottest ad agencies and design firms on the Agency Stage, and an Awards Stage featuring ceremonies for The One Show 2021, the historic ADC 100th Annual Awards and Type Directors Club special awards announcements.

One session of particular note is the “Creative Week 2021 Global Media Talks: The State of Creativity in South Africa” online panel hosted by Bizcommunity and The Creative Circle.
