

Finalists ready for 2017 Cartier Women's Initiative Awards

From 1,900 applicants, across 120 countries, Cartier, in partnership with INSEAD Business School and McKinsey & Company, has selected the 18 finalists for the 2017 Cartier Women's Initiative Awards.

The finalists have distinguished themselves by the impact they are making in ensuring food security for the future, leveraging technology to connect communities and empower individuals, enhancing the healthcare and social care systems and optimising the use of resources towards sustainability.

For more information about the programme and the finalists' businesses, go to www.cartierwomensinitiative.com.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>