

Commvault appoints vice president of sales

Data protection and information management software company, Commvault has appointed Christian Lang as its new vice president of sales for Europe, Africa and the Middle East. With 26 years of experience in the technology solutions industry, Lang's role will include driving growth and expansion of Commvault's EMEA business.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>