16 Nov 2023

Ornico, Africa's only full member of the International Association for the Measurement and Evaluation of Communication (AMEC) and a staunch advocate of the Barcelona Principles, is delighted to host a pivotal online talk and panel discussion on Friday, 24 November 2023, during AMEC's 10th annual "Measurement Month." This global initiative, running throughout November, is designed to educate communication and public relations practitioners on the latest best practices in measuring the effectiveness of their strategies.

The online event, featuring insightful discussions and expert perspectives, including renowned international guests, further features the release of the 2nd annual edition of the SA PR Landscape Report. This comprehensive report aims to uncover how South African PR practitioners measure and evaluate their strategies, showcasing the evolution of best PR measurement and evaluation practices in the South African communications landscape.

AMEC, known for launching and adopting The Barcelona Principles in 2010, continuously refines its framework for best practices in PR measurement. The latest iteration, Barcelona Principles 3.0, was introduced in 2020.

Join us on a compelling journey of exploration into the ever-changing measurement and evaluation landscape of public relations and communications in South Africa.

RSVP and invite your colleagues to this major event!
