

Kuper wins award for most influential women

Ariella Kuper, co-founder of online mining auctioneering company, Clear Asset, recently received the Continental Award in the Mining Sector for CEO Global Africa's Most Influential Women in Business and Government.

Ariella Kuper (middle) receiving her Continental Award in the Mining Sector for CEO Global Africa's Most Influential Women in Business and Government.

Kuper was also a finalist for the South African leg in 2012 and again in 2014, and this year walked away with overall continental winner.

Clear Asset has grown exponentially working with over 80% of South Africa's major mines. It has sold over R500m in assets in three years, exporting 55% of these assets to countries as far as Peru, Saudi Arabia, India, Australia and across Africa. The company specialises primarily in mining with notable growth in agriculture and maritime, including four commercial ships to India and Taiwan in the last two years alone.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>